Clubs are Alive at MHS

has to offer:

Photography Club

Students Against Dangerous Decisions (SADD)-is designed to promote good decision making among students. Our SADD Chapter is part of a national organization that promotes and supports the decisions of teens to be healthy and involved in their school culture and community. Officer Ron Moore and Michelle Hays-advisors

Photo Club-is designed to help students learn more about photographic techniques, as well as share and display original work done outside the classroom setting. Jill Van Berkom-advisor

Humanities Club-is designed to provide opportunities for students to experience arts and culture. The club believes that learning about and attending artistic and dramatic performances, cultural events, and literary happenings enhances their own knowledge and understanding of humanities. Alison Ersfeld-advisor

Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Meadowdale-is designed to provide leadership development and volunteer opportunities through Big Brothers/Big Sister of Snohomish County.

Jane Doe-is designed to promote confidence in young women and promote awareness of issues affecting women in our community and throughout the world. Casey Shaw-advisor

Hip Hop-is designed to provide a safe and healthy environment for dancers to practice, learn, and share techniques and knowledge of various styles of urban dance. Allen Paves-advisor

Black Student Union-is designed to educate and inform students about black history and how it affects our daily lives. This group wants to go beyond the classroom learning about African-American History and give members a sense of belonging. The BSU is instrumental in organizing our annual MLK celebration. Dan Taylor-advisor

Bowling Club-is designed to bring together people with an interest in bowling and competition.

Audio Club-is designed to actively engage students in the fields of audio production, concert promotion, composing original music, radio, and television production. Claire Beach-advisor

German Club-is designed to promote the German language, culture, and history. Sean Griffin-advisor

Mock Trial-is designed to learn about and participate in a "Mock Trial" as a lawyer, witness, or bailiff. This group works on a simulation and then goes to a competition against other high schools from around the area. Michael Cullen-advisor

Teens Against Tobacco Use (TATU)-is designed as a peer education program in which high school students are trained to teach about the hazards of tobacco use and present to middle school and elementary students. Michelle Hays-advisor

Improv-is designed to educate students to the importance of improvisational drama and how it correlates to discovery, life, and entertainment. The group strives to teach its members these basic principals so they can apply them in school and in life. Steve Billeau-advisor

Key Club-is designed to offer students community service opportunities and a chance to build relationships. Key Club is a organization that works together with Kiwanis to serve the community. Key Club members are ambassadors. Elizabeth Cano-advisor

Key Performance Club-is designed to prepare members for entry into the work force. Dave Williams-advisor

GSA-is designed to raise awareness and support of LBGTO topics and provide a forum for discussion. Julie Carey-advisor

Diversity Club-is designed to allow students to have a better understanding of different ethnic backgrounds, cultures, religions, social preferences, and political differences. Claire Beach-advisor

National Honor Society-is an organization that recognizes high academic achievement, leadership, character, and service. Qualified sophomores are sent an invitation to participate during the spring semester. Heather Smith-advisor

DECA-is designed for current and former marketing students with a focus on leadership and personal development. This group helps run our MHS Student Store. Nancy Branom-advisor

Book Club- is designed for those students who love to read! Students read the same books and offer each other new perspectives and understanding as well as friendship through novels of different genres. Rita Ireland-advisor

Hi-Q-is designed for students who are interested in academic competition. Tryouts for the Hi-Q Team take place sometime in the fall. Marcus Merrifield-advisor

Anime Club-is designed to learn more about anime/manga and promote these interests amongst other fans of the art form. Jeff Brender-advisor

Art Club-is designed to promote and support a love of art in variety of mediums. Attendance is based on project interest. A trip to Europe is planned for the summer to explore famous art exhibits. Amanda Wood-advisor

ASL Club-is designed to bring about an understanding of DEAF Culture and promote leadership opportunities for hearing students in the DEAF community. Gerardo DiPietro-advisor

Random Acts of Kindness (RAKE)-is designed to reach out to the Meadowdale High community and let them know they are valued through acts of kindness. Beth Marriott-advisor

Leo Club-is designed to promote service to our community. Affiliated with Edmonds Lion Club, the MHS Leo Club maintains the garden outside the Perrinville Postal Office.
